

Table of Contents

Preface XIII

PART 1

Preparations

1 'Post-Systematic' Theology 3

1.1 Technical Concepts of 'System' in Kant and Hegel 4

1.2 Technical Concept of 'System' in Systems Theory 6

1.3 Critiques of Systems 7

1.4 Post-Systematic Theology 9

1.5 Stages of the Way 12

2 The Problem with a History of Stories 15

3 The Subject-Matter of Post-Systematic Theology 25

3.1 Post-Systematic Theology is an Activity 25

3.2 The Subject-Matter of Post-Systematic Theology 28

4 Christian Practice 31

4.1 The Practice-Prejudice in the Technical Narrative of Modernity 31

4.2 Christian Practice 34

PART 2

Narrative Ontology

5 Perception and Narration 39

6 Narrative Ontology and its Terminology in Contrast to Narratology 61

6.1 Stories and Narrations 62

6.2 The Narrantic, the Narrantological and the Narrative 63

6.3 Narration – Narrative 64

6.4 Narrators and Recipients 66

6.5 The Narrantic Effects of the Narratological Level 67

6.6 The Effectiveness of Passionate Narrations 68

6.7 Internarrativity 69

6.8 Narratology Narrantologically Analyzed 70

7 Narration and Relation 75

7.1 Relationality: the Ever-Present Poor Relation 76

7.2 The Capacity of Relational Ontologies 82

7.2.1 Relational Analyses 82

7.2.2 Relational-logical Attributes 84

7.2.3 Connections in Propositional Logic as a Means of
Relational Analyses 86

7.2.4 The Problem of Constitutive or Internal Relationality 86

7.3 The Sublation of the Relational into the Narratival 99

7.4 The Limits of Relational Ontologies and the Surplus of Narrative Ontologies 106

8 Narration, Migration, and Wayformational Lines 109

8.1 Biblical Aspects of Wayfaring and Transport 109

8.2 Transport and Wayfaring 118

8.3 Network and Meshwork 123

8.4 What are Wayformational Lines? 126

8.5 Wayformational Lines and their Margins 127

8.6 Stories are Wayformational Lines 127

8.7 Representation and Resonance 130

8.8 Teaching and Learning as Transmission or as Flow 133

8.9 Transport as Abstraction of Wayfaring 135

9 Narration and Event 139

9.1 Reducible Events in Analytic Philosophy 139

9.2 Constitutive Events in Whiteheads Organistic Philosophy 142

9.3 Extraordinary Events in Žižek and Caputo 143

9.4 Virtual Events as the Background of Becoming in Deleuze and Guattari 145

9.5 Ontologies of Events Presuppose Narrative Ontologies 148

10 Narration and Time 151

10.1 Paradoxes of Time? 151

10.2 The Experience of the Experience of Time as Stories'
Protentional-retentional Structure of the Present 153

10.3	The Experience of the B- and C-series and the Presence of the Past	159
10.4	The Logic of Surprise and the Presence of the Future	164
10.5	The Experience of the A-series of Time and the Presence of the Presence	166
10.6	The Experience of the Metric of Objectified Time	171
10.7	Excursus: the Misunderstanding of the Theory of the Entropic Reduction of the Irreversibility of Time	173
10.8	The Narrative Handling of Narrantic Time	176
10.9	Different Phenomena or Different Aspects of a Single Phenomenon?	183
11	Narration and Space	187
11.1	An Old Controversy: Container, Relation – or Continuum? ...	187
11.2	Heim's Philosophy of Spaces as Continua	190
11.3	Problems of All Continua	194
11.4	The Local Understanding of Developing Lines	195
11.5	Spatial Relations of Order as the Possibility of Alterity	199
11.6	The Primary-narrative Space and its Aspects	202
12	Narrations and Signs	205
12.1	Relational Categories	206
12.2	The Basic Structure of Semiosis	207
12.3	Types of the Object of a Sign	209
12.4	The Types of the Dyadic Partial Relation between Object of a Sign and Signified	210
12.5	Types of the Interpretant	211
12.6	Semiotics, Interpretation, Representation, Determination, and Perception	212
12.7	Biosemiotics	216
12.8	The Narrative Basis of Semiosis	218
13	Narrations and Metaphors	223
13.1	Typology of Theories of the Metaphor	223
13.2	The Heuristic Continuum of Metaphors and Concepts	229
13.3	The Basis of Metaphors and Concepts in Indexical, Primary Narrativity	231
13.4	Narrantic and Narrative Contexts of Semantic Unities	235
13.5	Metaphors as Overlapping Narrative Contexts of Meaning ...	239

13.6 Reality-reference of Narratively Based, Metaphorical
Language 243

13.7 Is ‘stories are lived before they can be told’ a Metaphor? 245

14 Narrations, Concepts, and Names 247

14.1 Concepts and the Question of the Bivalence of Propositions 247

14.2 What are Concepts? 249

14.3 Concepts and Designators 250

14.4 Designators as Names, Identity-descriptions and Indicators .. 250

14.5 Interwoven Becoming on a Specific Wayformational
Perspective as a Condition of Conceptuality 257

14.6 The Dynamic-bodily Sea Anchor of Conceptuality 260

14.7 Classificatory Knowledge and Narrative Knowledge 264

14.8 The Equiprimordiality of Designation and Predication in the Equivalence of Name and Story 266

15 Narrations, Models, and Theories 269

15.1 Different Kinds of Models 269

15.2 Models and Metaphors 273

15.3 Academic or Scientific Models and Models in Everyday
Language 274

15.4 Model-narrations and Myths 277

15.5 Models, Theories and Narrations 280

15.6 Theological Models as Tertiary Narrations 281

16 Narration and Dramatic Coherence 283

16.1 Conceptual or Logical Coherence 283

16.2 The Epic, the Lyric, and the Dramatic 285

16.3 Dramatic Coherence 287

16.4 Dramatic Coherence and the Conduct of Life 292

17 Narration, Causality, and Rules 297

17.1 Causality as Belief in Hume 297

17.2 A Narrative Explanation of Causality 305

17.3 Formative Causality and Circular Causality 308

17.4 Rules 312

17.5 Causality as Necessary, Adeontic-constitutive Rule 317

18 Narration and Contingency 319

18.1 The Transformation of Modalities 319

18.2	Different Modal Calculi and the Reduction of Operator Iterations	320
18.3	The Question of the Semantics of Modal Operators	322
18.4	The Accessibility Relation of Possible Worlds	334
18.5	The Narrative Meaning of Possible World Semantics	335
18.6	Situation Semantics as an Interpretation of Modal Operators	337
18.7	Modalities in Systems Theory	341
18.8	Causal Modalities and Quantum Theory	344
18.9	Relational Modalities and Spheres of Modalities in Nicolai Hartmann	346
18.10	Contingency and the Antinomy of Negation	350
18.11	The Practice of Contingency as Perception in Dramatic Coherence versus Decontingentization	355
18.12	Contingency and the Logic of Surprise	360
19	Narrations, Subjects and Inter-indexicality	363
19.1	Weak Inter-indexicality	363
19.2	Strong Inter-indexicality	368
19.3	The Narrative Basis of Intersubjectivity and the Question of Panpsychism	374
19.4	Preview of Narrative Identity	382
20	Narration and Truth	389
20.1	The Phenomenal Aspect of Truth	390
20.2	The Realistic Aspect of Truth, Representations, and (Re-)Sonances	392
20.3	The Pragmatic Aspect of Truth	397
20.4	The Truth of Narrations	403

PART 3

Divine Self-Presentation

21	Minimal Conditions for Speaking of God and the Divine Identifiability	407
21.1	The Necessity of the Theological Critique of Religion and the Question of Whether 'God' Signifies a Singular Term or Minimally a General Term	408
21.2	'God' as Transcendence and Beyond?	412
21.3	God as Anarchic Event and as the Wholly Other	419

21.4 God as Being Itself? 425

21.5 God as Absolute Necessity and as Becoming a Semetipso 436

21.6 God as Relative Necessity and as Perfection 442

21.7 God as the Reality determining All Else or as the
All-determining Reality 448

21.8 God as the Condition of the Possibility of the World or as its Power of Origin 457

21.9 God as that wherein Humans Find their Hearts Set and as that which is their Ultimate Concern 461

21.10 God as what Brackets Time and as the Episode-connecting Power 468

21.11 God as the Narrative Integration of All Narrative
Wayformational Perspectives in a Particular Wayformational
Perspective 476

22 Revelation as Perceiving Truth and Value 481

22.1 Issues in the Concept of Revelation 481

22.2 The Implicit Secondary-narrative Aspect of Revelation 487

22.3 The Primary-narrative Aspect of Revelation 491

22.4 Implications for the Transcendental-narrative Aspect of Revelation 495

22.5 Implications for the Reflexive, Secondary-narrative
Aspect of Revelation 500

22.6 Coda 504

PART 4

Equipment

23 Faith and Religion 507

23.1 Faith and Revelation as the Subject-matter of Theology 507

23.2 Concepts of Religion 509

24 Historicity and Holy Scripture 521

24.1 Secondary-narrative, Contemporary Communication, and the Historic 521

24.2 Narrativity and Textuality 527

24.3 Holy Scripture as Canon 529

25	Enlightened Reason	541
25.1	The Living Body in its Meaning for Reason	541
25.2	The Misery of Purified Reason	543
25.3	Trusting Reason	546
25.4	The Antinomy of Reason and the Adventurous Contingency of God	553
25.5	Reason in Need of Saving	555
26	Theology, Philosophy, and Natural Science	557
26.1	Dialogue or Conversation?	557
26.2	Standpoints or Perspectives on the Move?	558
26.3	Across or Along?	558
26.4	Between or In-between?	559
26.5	Perceiving in Faith and Theology	560
26.6	Philosophy, Observation, and the Sciences	562
26.7	Conversations while Walking Together and Barbour's Abstraction	566
26.8	Why do Science, Theology, and Philosophy Need to Interact?	567
27	Theology as a Science	571
27.1	The Criteria of Post-Systematic Theology	572
27.1.1	Identity Criteria	572
27.1.2	Truth Criteria	575
27.2	Post-Systematic Theology as Explication, Im-plication, and Com-plication	581
27.3	Post-Systematic Theology and the Unity of the Theological Disciplines	583
	Literature	585
	Index	613