

Contents

- 1 Introduction 1
- 2 State of the Art 5
 - 2.1 How Ideas Become Policy Norms 6
 - 2.2 Contribution of the Thesis 11
- 3 Theoretical Propositions 13
 - 3.1 Proposition 1: The Interplay between Epistemic Communities and IOs 14
 - 3.2 Proposition 2: Enforcing Social Recognition through in-Group Norm Champions 14
 - 3.3 Proposition 3: Enforcing Social Recognition through Public Campaigns 15
 - 3.4 Political Opportunity Structures 16
- 4 Methodological Approach 19
 - 4.1 Strengths and Limits of an in-depth Single-outcome Study 19
 - 4.2 Scope of Analysis 20
 - 4.3 Data and Method of Analysis 21
- 5 The Successful Emergence of a Policy Norm in Central Banking 23
 - 5.1 Status Quo of the Climate-related Financial Risk Policy Norm in Central Banking 23
 - 5.2 The UNEP Inquiry—An Organizational Platform for Financial Sustainability Norms 27
 - 5.2.1 The Successful Framing of a Policy Idea 28
 - 5.2.2 Setting the Agenda for CRFR in Central Banking 33

5.3	Zooming in: The Emergence of the CRFR Policy Norm in Europe	38
5.3.1	Teaching the CRFR Policy Norm to a Coalition of the Willing	38
5.3.2	Increasing the Public Social Recognition of the CRFR Policy Norm	44
6	Concluding Discussion of the Empirical Findings	49
	References	55