

Contents

1	Electromobility—The Current State	1
1.1	Introduction	1
1.2	Legal Framework	2
1.2.1	National Measures	2
1.2.2	European Measures	4
1.3	Advantages of E-Vehicles	8
1.4	Problem Description	9
1.4.1	Conclusion of Contract with the Charging Station Operator	10
1.4.2	No Free Choice of Energy Supplier	11
1.4.3	Excessive Pricing	11
1.4.4	Lack of Charging Infrastructure	11
1.4.5	Approach to a Solution	11
	References	11
2	Network Access Pursuant to § 20 EnWG	15
2.1	The Benefits for the End Consumer	15
2.2	Network Access Pursuant to § 20 EnWG	16
2.2.1	A Brief History	16
2.2.2	The Basic Structure of Energy Supply in the EnWG	20
2.3	The Public Charging Station in the System of the EnWG	21
2.3.1	Publicly Accessible Charging Station	21
2.3.2	Rightful Claimant	22
2.3.3	Obligated Party	22
2.3.4	Balancing Group	36
2.3.5	No Grounds for Refusal	36
2.3.6	Result	39
2.3.7	Excursus: The Tesla Supercharger Network	39
	References	40

3	Charging Stations as “Essential Facilities”	45
3.1	The Benefit for the Consumer	45
3.2	Network Access Pursuant to Art. 102 TFEU	46
3.2.1	Dominant Position	46
3.2.2	Abusive Conduct	53
3.3	Capability of Affecting Trade Between Member States	58
3.4	Result	58
	References	59
4	Price Abuse Due to Market Dominance	61
4.1	Benefit for the Consumer	61
4.2	Price Abuse Pursuant to Art. 102 TFEU	61
4.2.1	Relevant Market	61
4.2.2	Dominant Position	62
4.2.3	Abuse of the Dominant Market Position	65
	References	72
5	Insufficient Expansion of Charging Stations	75
5.1	Benefit for the Final Consumer	75
5.2	Relevant Market	75
5.3	Market Failure	76
5.3.1	Current Expansion of the Charging Station Network	76
5.3.2	Insufficient Expansion in Regard to the Current State	78
5.3.3	Insufficient Expansion in Regard to the Development Plan	79
5.3.4	Interim Result	80
5.4	Possible Reasons for the Lack of Expansion	80
5.4.1	High Fixed Costs	80
5.4.2	Economies of Scope	82
5.4.3	Chicken-and-Egg-Problem	82
5.4.4	Low Number of Available Public Places	83
5.4.5	Interim Result	83
5.5	Appropriate Measures	84
5.5.1	Self-healing Powers of the Market	84
5.5.2	Public Sponsorship	84
5.5.3	Public Responsibility	85
5.5.4	Regulation	85
5.5.5	Discussion	85
5.6	Result	86
	References	86
6	Summary and Proposals	89
6.1	Summary	89
6.2	Proposals	91
6.2.1	Legal Classification of the Charging Station	91
6.2.2	Charging Station as an Allowable Asset Pursuant to the StromNEV	91

Contents	xi
6.2.3 Structure of the Electricity Distribution Systems	91
6.2.4 Abolishing the Billing Fee	92
6.3 Closing Remarks	92
References.	93
Annex A—Overview Operators of Charging Stations	95
Annex B—Cost Calculation	97