Author's Acknowledgments

It goes without saying that writers focus on text, and I certainly enjoyed focusing on the text that you'll read in this book. However, this book is more than just the usual collection of words and phrases. A quick thumb through the pages will show you that this book is also chock full of images, from sharp screen shots to fun and informative illustrations. Those colorful images sure make for a beautiful book, and that beauty comes from a lot of hard work by Wiley's immensely talented group of designers and layout artists. They are all listed in the Credits section, and I thank them for creating another gem. Of course, what you read in this book must also be accurate, logically presented, and free of errors. Ensuring all of this was an excellent group of editors that included project editor Sarah Hellert, copy editor Scott Tullis, and technical editor Vince Averello. Thanks to all of you for your exceptional competence and hard work. Thanks, as well, to executive editor Jody Lefevere for asking me to write this book.

6 Italics

Italic type introduces and defines a new term.

Clear Your Private Information

You can enhance your privacy by temporarily clearing all private information from the Start screen tiles.

One of the benefits of the Start screen is that it uses live tiles that constantly updated information. This includes newly received e-mail and instant messages, the current music you are playing, the photo slide show you are playing, and the latest information from the Weather and Finance apps. However, this can be a privacy problem because anyone walking by your desk can see this information with a quick glance. To prevent this, you can temporarily clear all your private information from the Start screen tiles.

Clear Your Private Information

- 1 Move the mouse to the top right corner of the screen. The Charms menu appears.
- 2 Click Settings.
- 3 Click Tiles.

The Settings pane appears.

The Tiles pane appears.

Click Clear.

Windows 8 removes all your personal information from the Start screen.

TIPS

Can I prevent an app from ever showing private information in its tile?
Yes, you can turn off the updating permanently for the tile. Right-click the tile you want to turn off and then click Turn live tile off.

Can I prevent an app from displaying private information in a notification?
Some apps present a notification when new information comes in to your PC. For example, the Messaging app lets you know when a new instant message has arrived. Because some of these notifications can contain private information, you might want to turn off notifications for the apps that generate such notifications. Follow steps 1 and 2 to display the Settings pane, and then click Change PC Settings to open the PC Settings app. Click Notifications and then beside each app for which you want notifications disabled, click the switch to Off.
